

Tony Verb
Managing Partner
Mettā

Tony Verb is a serial entrepreneur and producer, originally from Hungary. Over the past 12 years, he's ventured into a range of projects in the technology, entertainment, cultural and creative industries in a list of different countries.

As an active and committed member of the Hong Kong startup ecosystem, he most recently launched Mettā in Hong Kong, a new online and offline platform to catalyse innovation and entrepreneurship. Highlighting the importance of networks and cross-border collaboration, he is now expanding the concept to other globally relevant hubs with a series of invite-only events. In previous years, Tony dedicated most of his time on the success of some notable tech and entertainment businesses in Asia, most notably Ticketflap and the Clockenflap Music and Arts Festival.

In his spare time Tony is involved in philanthropic projects and he is currently producing a documentary about domestic helpers in Hong Kong: The Helper. He is a proud member of the World Economic Forum's Global Shapers community.